Ethical Expectations

The City believes in treating people with respect and adhering to ethical and fair business practices, and City employees must do the same. Employees are expected to avoid situations that may compromise their reputation or integrity, or that might cause their personal interests to conflict with the interests of the City or its community members.

Employees at the City are public employees and are subject to the State of Oregon's ethics laws. In some cases, these laws provide additional limitations on employees, such as prohibitions on accepting gifts and strict definitions of conflict of interest. Information on these laws is available at the Oregon Government Ethics Commission website: <http://www.oregon.gov/OGEC>.

Employees with questions about whether an activity meets the City's or Oregon's ethical standards, are required to check with their manager before engaging in that activity. Employees who violate the Ethics Policy, or who violate Oregon ethics laws, may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including discharge.

Gifts

(a) Notwithstanding the minimum standards set forth below, the acceptance of any gift, gratuity, fees, loans, discounts, or anything else of value (collectively "gift" or "gifts") if it arises or is offered due to City employment is discouraged, even if accepting the gift is allowed under State ethics law.

(b) No employee will accept, either directly or indirectly, any gift, gratuity, fees, loans, discount, or anything else of value if it is offered due to City employment, without the Manager's prior permission, where the acceptance might tend to improperly influence the action of that or any other employee in the conduct of City business or reflect adversely on the City or any employee. Employees with questions about whether it's okay to accept a gift must contact Human Resources.

(c) Employees, employee's relatives (as defined by State ethics law) or members of the employee's household may not accept gifts with an aggregate value of over $50 during any one calendar year from a source that has a legislative or administrative interest in the City.

(d) Gifts directed to the City or a department in general may be accepted with the Department Director's approval.

(e) No employee, employee's relatives, or members of the employee's household may accept any gifts of entertainment from a source that has a legislative or administrative interest in the City. (f) In addition to the above, all employees are subject to the requirements and exceptions provided in ORS 244 related to Gift Limits and Entertainment Prohibition.
